Chiang's 'Free
China'

CHIANG Kai-shek likes the island he administers to be known as "Free China." That is, of course, to distinguish it from the other China ruled by Mao Tse-tung. For as everyone knows, under Communism the state regulates and controls every aspect of society and the individual will be subordinated to that of "the people" in whose name the state, directed by the party, rules.

But let us consider Formosa. Does the title "Free China" suggest that the people elect to their legislative representatives of their own choice? Does it suggest that there is political freedom, that people have the right to speak their mind on the way the Government conducts its administration and that they have the right within constitutional limits to try and do better themselves?

THE Lei Chen case suggests that Free China is as dangerous in Formosa as it was shown to be during the Hundred Flowers campaign on the mainland, and that political freedom is as restricted. It is a reminder also that freedom is as easily abused in Chinese society today as it was when Sun Yat-sen as a revolutionary was captured and held in the Chinese embassy in London for preaching opposition to, and overthrow of the Emperor.

In Formosa, today, Chiang Kai-shek is not the emperor, but an all-powerful soldier-statesman. In fact he has always been more soldier than statesman and ever since he came to power after Sun Yat-sen's death, he has been trying to rule the country in the same way as a general commands his army.

THIS meant the subordination of political expression to national interests as Chiang and the Kuomintang wrestled first with warlords, then the Japanese and their fellow-travellers and finally the Communists.

Today Chiang is still waging war against the Kuomintang's foes and presumably regards any systematic opposition to his regime as directly aiding the enemy and therefore seditious. This apparently was the pretext for Lei Chen's arrest, and it is calculated to make the most moderate critic think carefully before registering even mild disapproval of Chiang Kai-shek's rule in future.

THE most repugnant feature of the case is Chiang's insistence on a court martial instead of a civil hearing and the delay in bringing him to trial only emphasises that the rights of the individual in "Free China" count as little as they do in any totalitarian state. It must rile many Americans that this is the kind of administration which their Government is spending millions of dollars to support.

The world wonders what will happen to Lei Chen, but it seems clear that as long as Chiang Kai-shek rules Formosa, the luckless Lei can expect an little mercy as another of the Generalissimo's opponents. Young Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang was for almost 26 years in a form of confinement. If this is the kind of conduct the Nationalists tolerate, they should give up the foolish pretence of calling their small part of China "free."

Solicitor continues his evidence in District Court 'GIFTS FOR MY CHILDREN'

Low tells of Lam's $500 red packet

Gifts from Lam Chun-kit, a former solicitors' clerk now serving a jail sentence, were not for him but for his children, Robert Eli Low told Judge P. R. Springall at the Victoria District Court this morning.

Debate on China's repression in Tibet

United Nations, Sept. 22.

A full-dress debate on Chinese repression in Tibet was put on the General Assembly's agenda today by the Assembly's steering committee.

The Soviet Union and the United States took opposite sides on the issue in the first head-on East-West clash at this Assembly session.

Malaya and Thailand had asked the Assembly to hold a debate. Their request was approved by a vote of 11-4, with five abstentions.

SOVIET PROTEST
Mr. Valerian Zorin, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, called the question "a fabrication." He accused the Assembly of intervening in the internal affairs of Communist China.

"This question is nothing but an attempt to renew the cold war," he said.

The U.S. Ambassador, Mr. James J. Wadsworth, promptly took the floor to challenge Mr. Zorin. He recalled that last year the Assembly passed a resolution calling for respect for the fundamental human rights of the Tibetan people.

RIGHTS
"Despite this appeal," Mr. Wadsworth said, "the fundamental rights of the Tibetan people continued to be systematically disregarded and equally systematically destroyed."

The debate on Tibet stems from Chinese suppression of the Tibetan revolt of 1958 and continuing control by Peking. The full discussion will be held later in the Assembly session, probably in the Assembly's political committee.—AP.

Commonwealth recognition for Nigeria

London, Sept. 22.

Mr. Harold Macmillan, the Prime Minister, has sent a telegram to the Prime Minister of the Federation of Nigeria telling him that the Commonwealth Prime Ministers have agreed that Nigeria shall be recognised as a member of the Commonwealth when it becomes independent on October 1.—Reuters.

Morrisonville, Sept. 22. The Washburn railroad's "Bluebird" passenger train, speeding from St. Louis to Chicago at 70 miles an hour, collided here today with a switching freight train, injuring at least 14 people.

Two cars of the "Bluebird" overturned but only one was a passenger car.—UPI.

MACMILLAN'S PLANS WHILE IN NY

United Nations, Sept. 22.
The Prime Minister, Mr. Harold Macmillan, will meet President Eisenhower in New York on September 27. He is scheduled to arrive here on September 25 to take part in the UN General Assembly, a Foreign Office spokesman announced today.

The Prime Minister announced his plans in London today. He will come by special Royal Air Force plane and plans to stay in New York until September 30.

The Prime Minister is scheduled to make the main British speech in the General Assembly on September 29, the spokesman said.

The Foreign Office spokesman stressed that Mr. Macmillan had "absolutely no intention" of trying to arrange a meeting between President Eisenhower and the Soviet Premier, Mr. Khrushchev.

He added, however, that the Prime Minister would be "happy and ready to meet all delegation chairmen."—UPI.

Fresh violence in London's rent rebellion

London, Sept. 22.

Police with drawn truncheons charged into a howling mob of 2,000 bottle throwing demonstrators tonight in a fresh upsurge of street violence in London's rent rebellion.

Insurgents defeated in Laos battle

Vientiane, Sept. 22.

Troops of insurgent General Phoumi Nosovan, defeated in a 48-hour battle at Pakxane, about 100 miles east of here, have blown bridges over both rivers separating them from pursuing forces.

Parachute Captain Kong Lee said this today.

Capt. Kong, who returned here after commanding the attack on Pakxane, said the two companies of his second parachute battalion had captured 70 prisoners and a large amount of military equipment in addition to killing about 30 of Gen. Phoumi's troops.

Some of the men of the two battalions under Gen. Phoumi's command have recrossed the Mekong River toward Thailand, while the remainder "fled into the jungle," Capt. Kong said.

Although the victory was considered a decisive one here, Laos Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma anticipated further military engagements.

SURROUNDED

Meanwhile reports from Samnua in northeastern Laos indicated that two army companies under the command of a colonel favourable to General Phoumi were surrounded by pro-Communist rebels Pathet Lao troops.

The king, faced with the problem of warring Laotian factions, was said to have called the military leaders of both camps to the Royal capital of Luang Prabang in an attempt to avoid further bloodshed.

The government of Prince Souvanna Phouma has accepted such a meeting on principle.

The situation in Laos continued to be of great concern to foreign diplomatic missions here.

The American Ambassador, Mr. Winthrop Brown, back from a trip to Luang Prabang, said he still believed that a peaceful solution could be found.

Any foreign intervention in Laos, from no matter what side, would only worsen an already explosive situation, he warned.—AFP.

Mr K refers to Ike's speech as 'conciliatory'

New York, Sept. 22.

The Soviet Premier, Mr. Khrushchev, said tonight that he considered President Eisenhower's address before the United Nations as "conciliatory."

Mr. Khrushchev made the statement while answering questions by Henry Shapiro, UPI Moscow correspondent, at a reception in the Hotel Plaza given by the Togo republic.

"The President must have been ashamed of the U-2 incident since he did not mention it," Mr. Khrushchev said. "He only saw fit to mention the RB-47."

In his address earlier today, Mr. Eisenhower denounced Russia for shooting down the American RB-47 plane over international waters.

Mr. Khrushchev was asked what he thought was affirmative in the speech given by Mr. Eisenhower. "Its conciliatory tone," he replied.

In reference to Mr. Eisenhower's African proposals, Mr. Khrushchev said that "I saw nothing new in them."—UPI.

UN troops to intervene in Katanga

Elisabethville, Sept. 22.

After more than six weeks of political skirmishing with the Katanga Government, the United Nations finally stood its ground today and told its field commanders their authority would overrule that of Katanga's in quelling disturbances in the territory.

The commanders have now been told to "resist the Katanga army or police if they use harsh methods in stamping out anti-government uprisings by rebel tribesmen."

NEW ORDERS

The UN decision is one of the most important ones made since the intervention in the Congo. Spokesmen said it is likely to be backed soon by orders allowing UN troops to open fire in certain cases and to take whatever steps were necessary in maintaining order.

Throughout today, the UN army commander, Sweden's Gen. Carl von Horn, who arrived from Leopoldville yesterday, and top UN officials here have been discussing how to strengthen the UN position in Katanga.

There have been several meetings with the Katanga government and army authorities. Katanga officials made it clear, it is understood from local officials, that the government did not like the idea of losing all its powers in dealing with political unrest.

Premier Moise Tshombe warned the United Nations it will have to take all responsibility for what might happen if it intervenes in a clash between rebels and Katanga troops.

DETERMINED

UN officials, however, were in a determined mood. A member of the military headquarters said: "We suffered much loss of face and there has been a lot of political wavering here since our troops first landed at Elisabethville airport, but we are not going to give way again or compromise our position."

From now on, the United Nations will become completely responsible for maintaining military order in Katanga.

A UN officer said: "We feel too much is being left to the initiative and discretion of field commanders. The rules they are going to have to work by have not been hard-and-fast enough."

Massacre alleged

Leopoldville, Sept. 22.

The Provincial Assembly of the Katanga Province charged tonight that troops of Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe, and Baluba tribal leader Albert Kalonji "have massacred our people."

The Assembly made the charges in a telegram to Col. Mobutu and Mr. Patrice Lumumba to visit the Kasai to see for themselves.

The telegrams said if Col. Mobutu and Mr. Lumumba failed to act immediately, the provincial government "will have to take emergency measures of its own."—UPI.

JET CRASH

Altadena, Cal., Sept. 22.

A plane, believed to be a U.S. Air Force F-104 jet fighter, crashed with a huge explosion into a mountainside here today, and set off a roaring bush fire.—Reuters.

Man badly injured in chain collision

A man was seriously injured when three cars were involved in a chain collision in front of the Sing Pao Building in King's-road early this morning.

The collision occurred between a westbound private sedan and an eastbound sports car about 1 am.

The sedan, driven by a woman, was about to turn into Shad-street from King's-road when the sports car driven by a European came along.

The impact sent the sedan flying sideways so violently that it rammed a car parked by the roadside, pushing it on to the pavement.

The injured man, Wong Chun-lung, 33, of Room 403, Hoover Apartment, was sitting beside the woman driver of the sedan.

The name of the occupant of the sports car was given as Mr. N. T. Vanhecke, of Flat 401, Conduit-road.

The woman's name was given as Miss Li Shue-ching, of Flat A, No. 84 Hing Fat-street, 13th floor.

The name of the occupant of the stationary car was given as Ching Ching-yin, of 23 Tung Shing-road, third floor, Aberdeen.

LORRY CRASH

A 3-ton military lorry crashed into a barrier in the middle of Nathan-road at the junction of Granville-road shortly after 7 am this morning.

The lorry went on to knock down a concrete traffic sign on the pedestrian crossing and ended up on the opposite of the road near Whitfield barracks.

The lorry was badly damaged but as far as can be ascertained no one was injured.

TRAFFIC HOLDUP

Cars, trams and buses formed a mile-long queue east of the Garden-road and Queen's-road junction in a peak hour traffic holdup early this morning.

The stoppage was caused by roadwork going on in several places along Queen's-road East between Murray-road and Homers-road.

The line of traffic stretched away for several blocks and lay idle for nearly a quarter of an hour before it started to move again.

U.S. envoy in Berlin incident

Berlin, Sept. 22.

The American Ambassador to West Germany, Mr. Walter C. Dowling, was stopped today by East German police at the Brandenburg gate and told that as a diplomat accredited to Bonn he could not enter East Berlin without a special permit.

Mr. Dowling's car was eventually let through after he showed his identification. The Ambassador is also head of the American military mission in Berlin.

Mr. Dowling was travelling with the new Deputy Chief of the American mission in Bonn, Mr. Browster Morris, in a State Department car flying the American pennant.

ENTITLED
Mr. Dowling, who arrived here early today for a two-day visit, told reporters after a 25-minute drive through East Berlin that he had shown his identification card on the ground that any policeman was entitled to ask for proof of identity.

East Germany announced yesterday that diplomats accredited to Bonn would need special permits from the East German Government before going into East Berlin.

In East Berlin last night, usually well-informed sources said, American, British or French representatives would be treated as military representatives and thus would not be affected by the latest restriction.—Reuters.

WEEKLY REPORT ON THE HONGKONG STOCK EXCHANGE

UNSETTLED SHARE MARKET

Featureless with little price changes

Unsettled conditions were apparent during the week resulting in a featureless stock market with very little price changes to report.

After a mid-week calmness the market appeared to turn up yesterday with prices more or less regaining their previous week levels.

Hongkong Banks lost a little ground closing at $1.180. Lombards were sought after around the $30-35 level but sellers were reluctant.

There were buyers of Unions at $94 and here again sellers failed to show their hand.

Wharves were fractionally lower while HK Wharves remained at $230 nominal.

Hongkong Docks after a mid-week decline recovered to last week's price of $103. Wharves put out 30 cents on the week.

Providence slipped fractionally closing at $20.80 while Hotels appeared to be easier at $41 sellers. Lands were quoted at $58 ex dividend. Realities remained steady at $1.775.

In utilities Trams remained steady at $31.5 buyers.

Both the ferry companies were slightly off. Star Ferries had buyers $103 while Yau Ma Tei lost a dollar closing at $1.79.

China Light was steady at $22.80 while HK Electric was fractionally lower at $27.50.

Telephones were quoted at $34 1/4 ex rights which puts the price at a little over $38.

Cements were steady at $35 sellers.

In stocks Dairies were off 50 cents closing at $29.40 while sellers appeared for Watsons at $22.70. Lane, Crawford were steady at $39 1/4.

The rubber section was again easier following a lower rubber market.

In cotton Textiles and Nanyang remained steady.

Both the ferry companies were slightly off. Star Ferries had buyers $103 while Yau Ma Tei lost a dollar closing at $1.79.

China Light was steady at $22.80 while HK Electric was fractionally lower at $27.50.

Wall Street stock prices turn easier

New York, Sept. 22. Stock prices moved progressively easier today holding right on course to the final bell.

Most of the major groups were affected by the optimistic indication of traders, some of whom remained at home to observe the Jewish holiday.

Also affecting the extremely dull session were developments at the United Nations in which President Eisenhower presented disarmament proposals, aid to new African nations, and an appeal to the Russians to keep hands off the Congo.

IBM gave up its two point gain earlier while Zenith and Texas Instruments lost over three each. Some upside action appeared in those issues considered to be recession-resistant, notably some tobacco.

Copper was sold off around a point, perhaps in anticipation of greater stability in the African producing nations and better copper prices. Reynolds Metals dropped nearly three in the aluminum.

Today's volume was 1,970,000 shares. Of a total 1,011 issues traded 398 were higher and 526 lower.

American exchange volume was 1,010,000 shares. Bonds volume amounted to $3,810,000.

Dow-Jones closing averages: 20 Industrial 592.15, 30 Rail 130.00, 15 Utilities 151.15, 65 Stocks 198.19, 40 Bonds 84.83.

U.S. candidates call for change in foreign policy

Russian subs seen off Newfoundland

Washington, Sept. 22. The Pentagon said today that U.S. planes have sighted at least one and probably two submarines operating with a Soviet tanker and tug previously observed 400 miles east of the Newfoundland coast.

The Navy said: "These incidents occurred some distance apart and lead to the conclusion that there probably are two submarines."

The navy announced last week that Russia had deployed missile-monitoring ships in both the Atlantic and Pacific — a move that could signal an attempt at a spectacular space feat during Mr. Khrushchev's United Nations visit.

SPOTTED

It said then that a Soviet tanker, equipped with a helicopter and electronic gear, and a tug had been spotted in the north central Atlantic.

Four other ships were reported moving across the Pacific toward the area where the Russians have fired intercontinental missiles on two occasions this year.

"The tanker in the Atlantic is the 'Kokand' and the tug is the 'Kapitan V. Fedotov' — UPI.

Demonstrators arrested

United Nations, Sept. 22. A crowd of demonstrators clashed with police outside the United Nations today as Mr. Khrushchev was leaving after listening to speeches by President Eisenhower and Marshal Tito.

The demonstrators, shouting anti-Communist slogans, tried to break through the tight police cordon preventing anyone not on official business from approaching within 50 yards on the entrance. Ten people were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. —Reuter.

Kennedy and Nixon agree on China issue

New York, Sept. 22.

The major presidential candidates both called today for a new approach to U.S. foreign policy.

In interviews published side by side in the World-Telegram and Sun, Vice-President Richard Nixon, the Republican candidate, and Senator John Kennedy, the Democrat, gave their answers to the question:

"Do you have any ideas as to how to deal with Russia and the Communist menace throughout the world?"

Mr. Nixon replied by suggesting that the U.S. should "break through existing thought patterns and embrace as our objective nothing short of victory in the struggle for peace and freedom throughout the world."

He suggested that the new vice-president, who he was elected would be Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, the former U.S. Chief Delegate to the U.N., should be given the task of "directing and co-ordinating all governmental activities dealing with the non-military aspects of the world struggle."

New quality

Senator Kennedy called for new administrative machinery, new systems of co-ordination, new kinds of training and a new quality of leadership.

Cabot Lodge injures right hand

New York, Sept. 22.

The Republican Vice-presidential candidate, Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, was injured in the right hand today when someone slammed a car door on it.

Mr. Lodge was leaving the car to address a campaign in South Bend, Indiana.

He delivered the speech anyway then was rushed to hospital for X-rays.

X-rays showed later that there had been no fracture and that the only injury was to the fourth finger of the hand. The injury was described as not serious. The injury was similar to that suffered by Vice President Richard Nixon, the Republican Presidential candidate, several weeks ago. When he hurt his leg by a car door and was forced to go to hospital for a time. —Reuter.

Japanese to meet ex-POWs

London, Sept. 22. A Japanese curate, The Rev. Shigeo Kanoh, will read a lesson at the parish church in Codnor, Derbyshire on Sunday to 25 members of Derby branch of the "Burns Star Association" — many of whom were wounded or taken prisoner by the Japanese during the last war.

Mr. Arthur Searle, Social Secretary of the branch, said today: "We have decided to let bygone be bygone although a lot of our lads had a tough time with the Japs."

"Fortunately none of our members are disabled."

The Rev. Paul Miller, Vicar of the Church, was a prisoner-of-war in the Far East for three and a half years and worked on the Burma-Siam railway. —Reuter.

Ike entertains without K and Castro

New York, Sept. 22.

President Eisenhower engaged in a round of personal diplomacy today by playing host to officials of more than 20 nations, but his guest list failed to include the name of Mr. Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Mr. Eisenhower and Khrushchev managed to avoid a personal encounter when the President went to the United Nations General Assembly to speak to an audience including the Soviet premier.

While the President entertained Latin American diplomats at lunch, Mr. Khrushchev ate at the Soviet Embassy on Park Avenue. President Tito of Yugoslavia was visiting Mr. Eisenhower at almost the same time that Mr. Khrushchev attended a reception at the same Plaza hotel.

Mr. Eisenhower also pointedly snubbed another dictator — Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba. Neither Dr. Castro nor the delegate of the Dominican Republic was invited to the lunch the President gave for

President Eisenhower told his Latin-American guests that the nations of the Western hemisphere must devote themselves to seeking a better life for the lowliest labourer, the lowliest farmer, the lowliest dweller in Harlem in the East Side.

He asked for a spirit of "amistad" — the Spanish word for friendship — in moving toward a better life in the hemisphere. The Western nations were bound together by spiritual values and dedication to human liberty and dignity as well as by geography, he said.

CONGRATULATED

The White House Press Secretary, Mr. James C. Hagerty, said the guests congratulated the President on his speech to the United Nations General Assembly this morning.

After the Latin Americans left, Mr. Eisenhower went to the hotel's Presidential suite to receive several diplomatic visitors. The first was President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana. They talked for 45 minutes, after which they issued a joint statement saying:

"We have reaffirmed our loyalty to the United Nations. We believe solely through the United Nations is there a practicable road for the world to achieve peace."

Mr. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Nkrumah also discussed the Congo crisis but would not elaborate.

VIOLATIONS

The second caller at the Presidential suite was Prime Minister B. P. Koirala of Nepal, whose country has registered complaints of Chinese Communist border violations.

The President and Mr. Koirala issued a vaguely worded statement saying their discussion had dealt with "matters of current interest between the United States and Nepal as well as a number of international matters." —UPI.

French Cultural Minister accused of being terrorist

Paris, Sept. 22.

A charge that the French Minister for Cultural Affairs, Mr. Andre Malraux, had once been a terrorist threw a military trial into an uproar today in Paris.

The charge was made by Maître Verges, a defence lawyer in the trial of 24 "intellectuals" accused of belonging to an underground network aiding the Algerian rebels.

The principal defendant, Professor Francis Jeanson, said to be the leader of the ring, is being tried in his absence.

Mr. Verges objected to the fact that Malraux had not been called to testify at the trial. The lawyer remarked: "Mr. Malraux has sent word he does not know any of the defendants, but that is not true."

"We can prove the contrary. He knew Francis Jeanson who is being tried here in his absence."

Mr. Verges then discussed Malraux's famous novel "Man's Fate" and began to say, "Mr. Malraux, who had been a terrorist..."

At this point, the presiding judge stopped him and cried "I forbid you..."

Mr. Verges retorted: "We can't accept the idea that a talk between a minister and a defendant is impossible because the minister does not want it that way."

Another defence lawyer, Maître Oussedik, declared that Mr. Malraux has spoken out against torture in Algeria, and shouted, "We want to know the nature of the relationship between Mr. Malraux and Francis Jeanson." —AFP.

She'll be married in white—Milford Haven's bride—but where?

THE Marquis of Milford Haven and Miss Janet Bryce, the 22-year-old heiress, are planning to make their marriage on November 30 the wedding of the year.

Despite the difficulties in the way of a church wedding imposed by the marquis's previous marriage, they have decided against the informality typical of register office marriages.

So it will not be the simple suit for Miss Bryce on the day she becomes a bride, but a traditional white wedding gown and all that goes with it.

The reception will be a big one. Five hundred guests, with Earl Mountbatten, uncle of the marquis, certainly among them.

The earl has offered his nephew the use of Broadlands, the Mountbatten country seat, for the reception. But the marquis and Miss Bryce have decided against this.

They have chosen, instead, a London hotel, Claridge's.

Diamond ring

While he waits for his divorce to become final—Lady Milford Haven was granted a decree nisi in London at the end of July—the marquis is making no comment on his plans. Nor is his fiancée.

But friends have noticed that lately Miss Bryce is wearing a handsome diamond engagement ring. And that she and Lord Milford Haven are glowingly happy when together.

Miss Bryce, whose father died in 1952, met the marquis when she came to London from Bermuda in 1958. She was introduced to London by her wealthy cousin, Mr. John Bryce, who owns a magnificent mansion in Essex.

For the wedding, Lord Milford Haven's mother, the Dowager Marchioness, will be coming over from the South of France, where she lives in a villa near Cannes.

How many words of four letters can you make from the letters in the square below? In making the words, you must use only the letters in the square. Each word must contain the large letter, and there must be at least one letter in the line. No plural forms, no proper nouns, no hyphens, no apostrophes, no punctuation marks, no numbers, no words of more than four letters, and no words which are not in the dictionary.

For recitation at parties

While tugging at a glutinous meringue

His braces burst with a melodious twang.

The hostess, with delightful acquiescence

Began to hum a catchy little air;

In his embarrassment, he heard her say,

"I will sing, Mr. Wentworth, if you'll play."

Angry he replied: "I much regret

That single note is all you're going to get.

An accompanist in this distressing plight,

Can't burst his braces more than once. Goodnight!"

Early morning final

THE tohu-bohu in Rome has led to the suggestion that the whole question of peace, good will, sportsmanship and prestige should be brought up at a UNESCO plenary session.

The athlete who was heard muttering: "And may the worst man win" was severely repressed.

Heinz, Studebaker, Edison

I HAVE JUST SEEN
THEIR LITTLE-KNOWN
CRUSADE IN ACTION

Munich.

ONE important part of the American radio war with Communism was not mentioned by the runaway mathematicians Mitchell and Martin in their Moscow Press conference—the private enterprise campaign run by American business men with household names like Heinz and Studebaker.

Their two stations for broadcasting propaganda against Russia and her satellites are here in Munich—Radio Liberation and Radio Free Europe.

Radio Liberation has its headquarters in a gaunt concrete building with barred windows, standing on the edge of the Oberwiesfeld Airfield where Chamberlain landed to meet Hitler in 1938. It broadcasts in Russian and in 16 other languages, such as Ukrainian and Georgian, which are spoken in the Soviet Union.

Radio Free Europe's studios—near Munich's "English Garden"—put out 18 hours of programmes a day in Polish, Hungarian, and Czech, and six hours a day in Rumanian and Bulgarian.

Its broadcasts are relayed by land-line to a powerful short-wave transmitter in Lisbon which beams them into Eastern Europe.

Some of the money behind Radio Liberation comes from a committee whose members include Mr. H. J. Heinz II, Mr. Studebaker, Mr. Charles Edison, son of the great inventor, Mr. Alan Grover (a director of "Time" magazine), and a fair number of other tycoons.

There are also anonymous donors who want to fight Communism but don't want to prejudice their chances of doing business with Russia.

The bill

Radio Free Europe too has backing from anonymous business men, and from "Freedom Crusade" flag-day in the United States.

The budgets of both stations are secret, but I was told that Radio Free Europe must cost at least ten million dollars and Radio Liberation must spend at least as much.

Here in Munich, it is generally believed that some of the cash for the running of the stations comes from the State Department, though this is denied.

Certainly the Russian and satellite Governments are convinced that the stations are run by American Intelligence.

Hitler men

I myself have known American Intelligence officers who worked for Radio Liberation as part of their training at the U.S. Army Intelligence school in the Patton Play Village of Oberammergau.

The bosses of both stations are Americans. The head of Radio Liberation, Robert Murphy, is a former State Department official. At one time he was Eisenhower's globe-trotting trouble-shooter.

The people who write the programmes are refugees from the countries concerned. Some of Radio Liberation staff are men who fought for Hitler in the anti-Communist division he raised from his Soviet prisoners. One of the Russian "patriots"

by
Michael Connock

compilers is a former Soviet naval intelligence officer, who jumped his ship in the West.

The programmes are a mixture of news, comment, music, and feature material. Radio Free Europe has 10 minutes of news an hour on each of its programmes. About 10 per cent of its material is editorial comment selected from Conservative and Liberal newspapers in the West.

The station also adds its own comments on world affairs, and on the domestic affairs of the countries to which it is broadcasting.

"Our great advantage as a private station is that we can criticise the internal policies of the East European countries in a way that Government stations like the Voice of America could not do," I was told by Mr. Robert Scott, programme chief of Radio Free Europe.

Jazz experts

"But we broadcast a lot of jazz as well," he said. "The Poles, especially, are great experts and get very annoyed if you mix up jazz and blues."

What effect do the stations have?

Nobody knows how many Russians listen to Radio Liberation, but Radio Free Europe claims that its Intelligence service has discovered that seven out of ten East Europeans listen to their station.

"We have interviews in most parts of Western Europe," said Mr. Henry Hart, sociologist and the station's audience research head.

They approach members of trade delegations and other visitors from Eastern Europe and find out their views on Radio Free Europe, the B.B.C., and the Voice of America, without giving away that they are working for us.

Of one thing there is no doubt. Both Radio Liberation and Radio Free Europe annoy the Russian and satellite Governments.

My husband and Marilyn: Simone Signoret talks

Paris. M<sup>lle</sup>. SIMONE SIGNORET has given me a touching feminine explanation for perpetrating an act of great political rashness.

In common with forty other intellectuals and actors headed by Jean Paul Sartre, she has signed an appeal to French troops serving in Algeria to desert.

Such an appeal which would, of course, earn the signatories heavy prison sentences in any other country has so far gone unpunished here.

So fed up

M<sup>lle</sup>. Signoret explained her action by saying that she was so fed up with being questioned on the subject of her husband Yves Montand's alleged romance with Marilyn Monroe that "I longed to do something serious."

"So," she added, "when they asked me to sign I was so relieved to turn my attention to something outside myself that I signed immediately."

"Perhaps it was a little pretentious of me. Even as I signed I said to myself: 'Here we go again, falling into my old bad habits.'"

Her old bad habits to which she was referring are her impulsive generosity which has often brought her and her husband to the fringe of the French Communist Party.

As an emotional upset has had such serious political consequences we discussed briefly the rumours of a Montand-Monroe romance.

'A bad film'

"I felt as if I had been cast in a very bad film," she said. "There was Monroe, the bad blonde; Yves, the sexy Frenchman; and I, the suffering, smiling-through-the-tears saint."

"If I laughed people said 'I was being very brave. If I was silent they would think I was trying to break into tears. If I blew my nose I was of course trying to hide convulsive sobs.'"

Her eyes flashed in that tremendously attractive squint of hers as she not only protested that her husband was incapable of making that outrageous remark attributed to him in Hollywood to the effect that Miss Monroe might have had a schoolgirl crush on him.

The Montands come from very different social backgrounds. She is the product of Parisienne sophistication and he is the self-educated son of Italian immigrant parents.

Glowingly happy

The marriage has been a glowingly happy one for the past 10 years, with M<sup>lle</sup>. Signoret as the fiercely possessive and—until Montand's success was safely established—safely established—the uncorrect-minded wife.

I hate to revert to the bad film script she outlined but I left her feeling that she had been badly hurt.

Quote of the Week

Former Premier Edgar Faure: "The only fault I have to find with General de Gaulle is that he is not President of the United States."

SECRET SERVICE

I AM at last able to sleep up a little. mystery which has intrigued me for the past two or three months.

During that time I have seen Col. Rayon, the former secret service agent who was the central figure in last year's great Walter scandal, keep a rendezvous every Saturday morning in a Paris bar with a tall, distinguished man whose face was faintly familiar but whose identity I could not establish.

Rayon, it will be recalled, claimed that he had been hired by the multi-millionaire Walter family to kill on adopted son who stood to inherit a great part of the fortune.

The Walter family replied that Rayon had been trying to blackmail them.

The case though still officially under investigation, looks as though it will never be brought to court.

Now, thanks to General de Gaulle's Press conference the other week I am able to identify the man Rayon has been seen with weekly.

I saw him seated among the ministers at de Gaulle's conference. He is Olivier Guichard, one of General de Gaulle's closest and most distinguished collaborators.

DILEMMA DE PLON

A CONSIDERABLE dilemma faces the distinguished Paris publishing house of Plon.

Plon are the publishers of General de Gaulle's memoirs and he is both its most famous author and its biggest money spinner.

Now Plon plan to publish a volume of memoirs by a notorious French wartime collaborator. Proof copies of the book have already been issued bearing the firm's imprint and a copy is in front of me as I telephone.

At the last moment, however, Plon has taken fright with a thought that if it publishes this book it may lose de Gaulle.

The book is written by Roger Labonne, a former colonel in a French unit raised by the Nazis to fight on the Eastern front.

Labonne was sentenced to hard labour for life after the war but was released in 1952. All his wealth was confiscated except for some pieces of paper then considered worthless.

He has been able to live in comfort ever since as a result of this oversight.

The papers were shared in the Thyssen Iron and Steel Works given him by the Germans, and which are still honoured.

ECONOMY—CAVIARE MINUS TOAST

★ THANKS to large imports of lesser known brands of Scotch the price of whisky here has now dropped to the point where a bottle costs less than it does in Britain. At the same time the price of bread has risen so steeply that I foresee the day when those who can afford whisky will have to economise by eating their caviare without toast.

HAS PICASSO BLUFFED THE EXPERTS?

Many visitors paused before the same work. It is called Paul as Harlequin. But no one noticed the young man in brown.

The portrait is of Picasso's son, painted when the boy was three years old. The young man in brown is the same boy grown to manhood. He is now 39.

by
TUDOR JENKINS

Paul is the only one of Picasso's children born in wedlock. His mother was Olga Koklova, a young dancer in the Diaghilev ballet whom Picasso met in 1917.

He speaks some English, but without sufficient grip to understand the opinions of visitors to his father's exhibition.

I can tell him the people are bewildered. Listen to their comments. As a group approached a large canvas, one said: "Bazooka! Court maza." He coloured slightly on referring to the catalogue: he found it was Picasso's idea of his kitchen.

Roland Penrose tells me that when the exhibition closes it will have been seen by around 400,000 visitors.

What attracts people to this exhibition in such fantastic numbers?

Mystique

First there is the mystique of Picasso. He is a man few have seen in this country.

Like Garbo and the late Montagu Norman he knows that one way of getting publicity is to make a big display of avoiding it.

Then there is the tremendous publicity that has surrounded the exhibition.

For months before it opened in July, there were stories published about this exhibition, "the greatest the world has seen." An echo of Barnum here.

It opened with a remarkable touch of snobishness. Three large parties were held—one for 2,000 people at £5 5s. a head.

These pictures come from all parts of the world. A large number have been lent by galleries. That is the right place for them. Picasso should be taken in small doses. His works are not for the home.

What man or woman, coming home after a busy and exhausting day, would take a chair and spend half an hour refreshing the soul before a Picasso?

Picasso has no qualms about this. "Painting is not done to decorate apartments," he says. "It is an instrument of war against brutality and darkness."

Antidote needed

Of course there are some pictures in this exhibition that must give pleasure to everyone.

But as I came away I felt the need of an antidote. I would like to have seen some of the other great pictures in the Tate, pictures of deep and satisfying beauty.

It was too late.

My companion the other night was forthright. "What do you think of it?" I asked.

"I think," she said, "that Picasso has pulled off a tremendous feat. Like the false messiahs in those strange cults they have in America, he has bluffed the so-called experts and set them up as his own high priests."

"No wonder he wouldn't come to London to see it. He couldn't keep a straight face!"

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 23

AQUARIUS (January 21-February 19): A person born under Gemini will have a great attraction for you, and a friendship formed could prove most rewarding.

PISCES (February 20-March 20): Instead of wavering between two decisions, you should now make up your mind and commit yourself to a definite action.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): If your partnership is not running as smoothly as it might, try to get at the root of the trouble.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): By trying to understand the motives behind other people's actions, you will find it much easier to get along with them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): This would be a good time to have a general clean up of accumulated papers and correspondence.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Don't expect too much return from a small investment, but it should at least repay you for your trouble.

LEO (July 22-August 21): A person who is anxious to help you progress will find you an opening which might start you off on a successful career.

VIRGO (August 22-September 22): An additional responsibility may mean an alteration of your original plan for the week-end.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): You are worrying unnecessarily about unimportant details. Keep the larger issues in the forefront of your mind.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): A lot of patience will be needed today with a person who is anxious to learn but lacks the necessary mental equipment.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): A friend's visit may be cut short by a letter requiring his presence elsewhere.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 20): A shopping expedition will be most rewarding and you will save quite a bit of money without sacrificing quality.

YOUR BIRTHDAY: If this is your birthday you can look forward to a very harmonious solution of your present family difficulties.

JACOBY on BRIDGE

With today's hand we take leave of "Spotlight on Card Play."

South has a slightly shaded two no-trump bid, but who doesn't shade them?

North's three-club bid is a Stayman response and after South shows his four-card heart suit North takes him to game. West opens the jack of clubs and South had no trouble in deciding to play low from dummy. He is sure that West would not lead from a king after a two no-trump opening.

East plays the king and here is where we separate the men from the boys. South must let that king hold the trick.

East can lead anything back, but probably will try a spade. South wins; plays ace and another diamond for a ruff in dummy; and leads a heart. If West wins and plays a second club East can ruff or not as he chooses. If he does not ruff South winds up losing two clubs and the ace of trumps. If he does ruff South loses the ace of trumps, a ruff and just one club.

In other words if East ruffs he will be ruffing a trick that South had to lose anyway. Should South win the first club with the ace he would go down. West would take his eye of hearts and lead the 10 of clubs where upon East would be able to ruff dummy's queen.

Gloria Calls A Party

—Everyone's Invited To The Doll's House—

By MAX TRELL

THE MAGIC Telephone, which stood behind the bookcase, rang.

Hand, the Shadow Girl with the Turned-About Name, who had been talking to General Tin, the Tin Soldier, said:

"Gordon me, General Tin. I have to answer the telephone."

Not for him

"I'm sure it's not for me," said General Tin. "No one ever calls me."

So Hand hurried behind the bookcase and answered the telephone. A moment later she ran back to General Tin and said:

"It's for you, General!"

General Tin could hardly believe it.

"For me?" he asked.

Very excited

He was so excited and surprised that he nearly dropped his musket.

"Who, who is it?" he asked.

"I don't know," said Hand.

"But it's a girl."

"A G-g-girl?" asked General Tin.

"Hurry," said Hand. "She's waiting to talk to you."

Almost fell

General Tin was in such a hurry to answer the telephone that he tripped over his own feet and almost fell.

Finally he reached the telephone and spoke into it.

"H-hello. Who is it?" he asked.

By this time, all of General Tin's friends had crowded around behind him trying to find out who was calling him.

Beside Hand, there were her brother, Knarl, Teddy, the Stuffed Bear, Hlewatha, the Small-Sized Wooden Indian, Mr. Punch and his wife Judy and Mary-Jane, the Rag Doll.

Gloria was missing

The only one who wasn't there was Gloria, the Beautiful China Doll.

Doll, with the blue eyes and the long golden curls. And that put an idea in Hand's head.

She tiptoed across the room to the doll house where Gloria lived. The window was open and she looked in.

"Sure enough, there was Gloria talking over the telephone. Hand heard her saying:

"Hello, General Tin. This is a very good friend of yours."

Hand laughed to herself.

Playing a trick

So it was Gloria, the Beautiful China Doll, who was playing a trick on General Tin by calling him on the telephone.

But was it really a trick?

Through the open window Hand could see that the table in Gloria's dining room was filled with cakes and cookies and pitchers of lemonade and napoleons and eclairs and macaroons. It looked as if Gloria was going to have a party.

Hurried back

Hand hurried back to General Tin and reached him just as he said goodbye and hung up the telephone.

"Who was it? Who was it?" everybody shouted.

"I don't know," said General Tin. "It was a girl. She knew my name. She said she was giving a party and she would like me to come and bring all my friends. So all of you are invited."

"Now how can there be another house inside our house?"

General Tin walked first and all the other followed. Sure enough, he came to a house between the window and the clock. And he and all the others went inside.

Hand saw Gloria speaking on the telephone.

"I'm so glad you could come," said Gloria, the Beautiful China Doll.

Very lonely

"I live in this beautiful house, but it's awfully lonely here all by myself. The more noise you'll make, the more fun I'll have!"

Gloria took Hand aside and said to her:

"I hope General Tin didn't mind my calling him."

"Oh no," said Hand. "He's just as lonely as you are, standing all by himself all night long with his musket over his shoulder guarding the Playroom."

Rupert and the Sky-boat—1

"Hello, mummy, you've been a long time sleeping," says Rupert, pausing in his gardening. "What makes you so late?" "I was waiting because out of the corner of my eye I thought I saw something float past," says Mrs. Bear. "But when I turned I had disappeared behind the trees."

Is this the last-post for Yves St. Laurent?

IN a bugle-blast of rumour and counter-rumour Yves St. Laurent joins the army, and for the second time in three years the £5,000,000-a-year Dior Empire is without a designer.

The spokesmen in the Ivory-painted salon on Paris's rue d'Assommoir, where Yves St. Laurent will return when he has completed his two years of National Service.

But I for one will be surprised if we see his pale, rosy figure nervously hunching his way through that scented salon again.

For I know the iron laws that hide behind the rich velvet mask of the fashion world.

Trapeze? Oh!

TAKE a look at his career since his mantle of the late Christian Dior fell on his bony shoulders three years ago.

HIS FIRST collection—the trapeze-line—hardly went with a swing.

THEN he chose to lower the hemline just at the time when women were falling in love with their legs again.

A YEAR AGO, in as bad a collection as I have ever seen, he managed to throw together every stale gimmick in the fashion business.

And only two months ago I wrote that the great House of Dior deserved a better pilot than St. Laurent had proved to be.

But the unyielding Dior business, with its payroll of 14,000 people, must keep its eye on hard cash.

In the past Dior did 50 per cent of the total Paris couture business. But this season, the potentiales of New York's Seventh-avenue (the rich rag trade area) cut down their purchases drastically—many top manufacturers by-passing St. Laurent altogether in favour of Givenchy, Castilio, and Nina Ricci's golden boy, Jules Cray.

Women's Wear Daily (the informed American fashion newspaper, which even managed to forecast correctly the Princess Margaret wedding dress) reports the top brass at the Dior salon as privately admitting that three St. Laurent collections "just are not up to Dior standards."

And on this evidence, despite the statement from Dior, I find it hard to foresee the return of the prodigal private.

A dream...

BUT if St. Laurent goes—who else is there? Is there some bright boy already held in the enamelled hands of the black-gowned madames of Avenue Montaigne?

But how long will he last if, like St. Laurent, he is walled up in that ivory tower, guarded as carefully as the Mona Lisa, with the image of the master hanging permanently like a jewelled albatross around his neck?

For those were the conditions under which worked this boy who now faces up to two years of square-bashing, two years with a serge tunic instead of satins and silks between his fingers, two years of taking endless orders.

Me, I think these next two years will be a dream by comparison.

CHARCOAL GRILL

THE Allens arrived in England before the charcoal grill, and life without charcoal grilling was unthinkable to any self-respecting American. Mr. Allen hastened to design a magnificent charcoal range, which was built in the basement.

Made of red brick with a brass canopy, it occupies almost an entire wall of a large room, furnished with heavy oak refectory tables, where 25 people can sit down to a barbecue supper.

Life is rather precarious for Mr. and Mrs. Allen at the moment, because their house is Crown property and the lease is due to run out fairly soon. What happens afterwards is, apparently, a heavily guarded secret.

Mr. Allen already has a country home, at his stud farm in Newmarket. He said he thought he might go and live there if he can't renew the lease. Mrs. Allen said she thought he might not. "Good Lord," she exclaimed. "I can't live in the country. When I step outside the front door I like to see pavements, not fields."

Mr. Allen bought their Nash House while his wife was in America. When Mrs. Allen saw it she thought he was out of his mind. It didn't even have a bathroom. Now it has five.

SNAPPER with sour sauce.

INGREDIENTS: 1 to 1½ lbs of snapper, 10 slices of sour ginger (ginger already pickled in vinegar for 2 or more days, 3 pieces of sour kiu (local small onion-like vegetable) ½ oz. pickled cucumber, 1/3 oz.

Red Snapper

DESCRIPTION

Entire body bright red, darker red on the top of the head and on the fins over-lying a little dusky on the back. With a prominent dusky or sepia patch on the top of the base of the tail. Each scale on side of body with a deep red mark forming numerous parallel horizontal lines. Mouth large, terminal; teeth rather small, strong. One continuous dorsal fin with slender spines. Third, anal spine the largest, spines strong. Edge of preoperculum with notch and finely serrate. Tail square not forked. Scales of sour mixed pickles, 1 chilli some onion, 2 cups of vinegar, 1 tablespoonful lard, sugar and salt.

CUT the fish and clean. Steam until just cooked (about 15 to 20 minutes) Mix the rest of the ingredients mentioned above and boil separately for a few minutes. Add a little cornflour to thicken the soup. Add enough sugar and salt to make the soup taste of the sauce agreeable. Pour this sauce onto the hot fish. The dish is then ready to serve.

COMMENT ON CRICKET PROPOSALS

Australians edge one through the slips

By J. L. MANNING

London.

Officially from Australia the other day came an entirely unsolicited but by no means original suggestion that her bowlers after all might be a little unfair. Indeed, the Australian Cricket Board of Control seemed to think it a point in its favour to confide in the public that approval of Australian bowlers by English umpires next summer could not be guaranteed.

London Express Service

Alas, they never could. Nor could England's. Those cursed English umpires, provided they are not hoodwinked from office or driven to beg favours, can be sticklers for the law.

Stubborn

How to overcome the unreasonable stubbornness of these bowler-owning lawyers is the point of Australia's latest but undisclosed proposals for next year's tour.

The public's first reaction will be: "Huh? It all wasn't this throwing business cleared up at Lord's during the summer when the Imperial Cricket Conference unanimously adopted definitions of unfair bowling? It's a very fair question."

Australia is now having second thoughts about that conference. She manoeuvres away from its judgement. She sees trouble. She is right. Trouble is there. The trouble being that English umpires might call Muckitt and Rorke for throwing and MCC would be obliged to say to the Australian board: "Don't blame us. You sent those bowlers at your own risk and knowing full well what happened when South Africa risked sending Griffin."

Solution?

So it begins to look as though Australia is now officially offering a solution which was unofficially hinted at two months ago.

This is to suspend the application of the new definition during the tour and declare a truce, under the terms of which umpires should not call bowlers for throwing. This would call for both teams to bowl at each other in all good faith.

And, Australia might add, this would also make it unnecessary for her to object to any of our umpires.

Thus it would be peace all round, and that would be well worthwhile even if Australia did happen to win again.

MCC ought to stand firmly against this line. The sanctity of the Imperial Conference agreement is more important to cricket than a temporary easing of Australia's dilemma.

Suggestion

Another possibility, of course, is that Australia would prefer neutral umpires in England next summer. Many have suggested this before. Australia could argue that if we suspect her bowlers she has the right to suspect our umpires.

I don't mind what they do so long as the series is played according to the laws. Cricket without rules just isn't cricket. Permit throwing and no objection for the batsman would be not only dead but damned. So might the poor batsman.

But I suppose if cricket could learn to live dangerously far more people would pay to see it.

Snell, Thomas fail in world record bids

Dublin, Sept. 22. Peter Snell, New Zealand winner of the Olympic 800 metres gold medal, failed by 1.1 seconds in his attempt to smash the world 880 yards record at the fast Santry Stadium track here tonight.

Snell clocked 1:47.9 to establish an Irish all-comers record. Ron Delany, the 1956 Olympic 1,500 metres champion, was second in 1:49.2, while Tony Blive the Australian champion, third in 1:48.4.

John Thomas, the United States Negro high-jumper, set another Irish all-comers record when he won the event with 7 feet 2 inches. Thomas then had the bar raised to 7 ft 4 ins which would have given him a world record, but failed with his three attempts.—Reuter.

COMMONWEALTH XI HELD TO A DRAW BY RHODESIA

Century by O'Neill the highlight

Bulawayo, Sept. 22.

The two-day match between Rhodesia and a Commonwealth XI ended in a tame draw here today.

Highlight of the day's play was a fine, attacking undefeated 104 by Australian Test batsman Norman O'Neill.

Dinzeo retains World Horse Jumping title

Venice, Sept. 22. Captain Raimondo Dinzeo, Italian Olympic champion, retained his World Horse Jumping title here today.

Dinzeo made two perfect rides and was penalised only four points in each of two other courses to win his second straight world championship.

Argentinian Lieutenant Col. Carlos Della placed second with 24 points and David Broome, of Britain, placed third with 28 penalty points.—AP.

He received good support from the Lancashire left-hander Geoff Pullar (81), when the Commonwealth XI made 287 for two in their second knock after leading by 104 on the first innings.

Gloucestershire's Tom Graveney, who made 25, shared with O'Neill in an unbroken third-wicket stand of 100 for the Commonwealth XI.

But it was a disappointing day. The visitors obviously decided to get as much batting practice as possible, and made no attempt to force a result.

Play was also marred by the fracture to Commonwealth skipper, Richie Benaud's spinning finger, which put him out for the rest of the tour. Graveney will assume the captaincy.

Benaud was hurt when attempting to hold a hard return catch offered by Ian Haig, who went on to hit an undefeated 94 for Rhodesia. England Test player Freddie Trueman captured five wickets for 41.

Final scores

Final scores were: Commonwealth XI—289 (Mike Smith 43, R. Simpson 71, R. Benaud 48, R. Illingworth not out 40, Napier four for 69) and 257 for two (N. O'Neill 104 not out, G. Pullar 51, R. Simpson 43).

Rhodesian XI—185 (I. Haig not out 94, J. McPherson 41; Trueman Ave for 41).—Reuter.

'THEY'LL BE WEARING BIKINIS NEXT'

Mrs. Spearman (left) and Miss Price

Women golfers in shorts shock Sunningdale

London. Two international women golfers took to the course at Sunningdale, Berkshire, in SHORTS last week.

The bared knees of Elizabeth Price and Marley Spearman—competing in a foursomes tournament—set the other girls giggling.

And said a horrified caddy: "They'll be wearing bikinis next."

SO COOL

Said Miss Price: "We know some people don't approve—we hope to convert them. Shorts are so much cooler to play in."

True, shorts are not entirely new to British courses—the Americans always wear them when they come. But not in Britain.

Commented Miss Molly Gourlay, one-time secretary of the Ladies' Golf Union: "I think shorts are extremely ugly. And the shorts these girls wore were shorter than American Bermudas. A skirt is just as cool as shorts, if not cooler."

"It's a different matter in America. A skirt sticks in the heat. Anyway, American girls are more athletic looking than our English lassies."

NO RULING

From the chairman of the LGU, Miss Mary Holdsworth, in Cloughton, Yorkshire, came the official verdict: "There is no definite ruling about shorts."

"If people look nice in well-cut shorts, that's fine. But they should choose the time and place to wear them."

"I can quite understand there would be a number of golfers with very anti-shorts views at Sunningdale."

FLAY NOTE: Miss Price and Mrs. Spearman won their match handsomely by 6 and 5.

Pirates take two big strides towards NL baseball title

Pittsburgh, Sept. 22. The first-place Pittsburgh Pirates took a pair of giant strides toward the National League pennant today, sweeping a double match from the Chicago Cubs, 3-2 in 11 innings and 6-1.

The double triumph, which increased the Pirates' lead over idle second-place St. Louis to 7½ games, eliminated Milwaukee's third-place Braves and made it possible for Pittsburgh to clinch the title tomorrow if they beat the Braves and the Cardinals split their double match with the Cubs.

Television Rugby on the increase

By ROY McKELVIE

London.

More Rugby Union football than ever before will be shown on television this winter. Next month three midweek county matches, involving Middlesex, Surrey, Hampshire, and Kent, will be televised by ATV to the Midlands.

On November 2 the London v. Irish Universities match on the Richmond Athletic Ground will be similarly televised.

Though one of these games clashes with a Midlands county match no Midlands voice has been raised against it.

Mervyn Seiden, a Midlands representative on the RU, says: "We weren't asked our opinions before the contract with ATV was made but I don't think it will affect us in the slightest."

If it was a Saturday match then we would complain."

No objections

Mr Joe Arnold of Eastern Counties, who arranged the contract, says: "No other counties objected." He tells me the contract is worth just under £250, to be shared by the counties involved.

Following this, the BBC will televise nine international matches on five different Saturdays and also, as an experiment approved by the RU, the Scottish RU, two Saturday club and tour matches: Bath v. Bristol on October 15, and South of Scotland v. South Africa on November 19.

First time in softball history

Two Services teams open Junior League programme tomorrow

By OLLY VAS

For the first time in the long history of the game two British Services teams will open the softball league programme in the Junior division. At 4.00 pm at King's Park tomorrow the Austers of Shatin will play the Antelopes, an entirely new team making its debut.

Preceding this there will be a Little League baseball match between the Cubs and the Rebels. The young baseballers will once again be seen in action on Sunday morning at 10 am when the Lions come up against the defending champions, the Giants.

The programme switches back to softball again at 11.30 am, when two of the pennant contenders, Alex Bragg's Indians and Ray Cordeiro's Giants will cross bats.

There will be more than passing interest shown in this particular game for we will be seeing two popular players, one on each side, in action after a short absence from the softball scene.

Joey "Stretch" Reels will probably be stationed at first base for the Indians. This linky infielder, an experienced Senior leaguer, can really stretch for the infield throws coming his way. He is weak in batting but makes up for it by fine defensive play.

Senior match

E.D. "Sonny" Machado has joined the Giants and is currently the holder of the greatest number of strikeouts recorded in the Junior league to date. But two individuals, even in opposition do not make a softball game and though in certain quarters there has been talk of this being a "real thriller, top-notch" and so forth it could well turn out to be a disappointing affair. Who can say with certainty if players will live up to the form shown in practice?

The 2.00 pm game will be a Senior match between the Pandas and the sailors from the U.S.S. "Comstock" the present station-ship of the U.S. Navy. The latter have not played at King's Park before and they should find the going anything but easy against "Goose" Wong and his friends.

A RUSH OF THREE

In the long history of County Championship cricket only on four occasions has a wicket-keeper claimed a hundred victims. George Duckworth (twice), Fred Hush and Les Ames were successful, but not even the great Herby Strudwick got so far.

This past summer, however, three men have achieved the feat—Jim Banks (Yorkshire), John Murray (Middlesex) and Roy Booth (Worcestershire). Booth just missed the "double" for he reached 939 runs. —Bancroft Service.

Thanks to the skipper

Although they just missed a bronze medal at the Olympic Games, Great Britain's hockey team paid full tribute to captain Frank Reynolds for steering them into fourth place.

Britain won the quarter-final against Kenya after 123 minutes' play—the longest first-class hockey match on record—and the players say that their superior stamina was due to Reynolds' training them with two 70-minute practice matches with hardly a break in between. —Bancroft Service.

Japanese soccer XI lose in Germany

Hagen, Sept. 22. A crowd of 8,000 today saw the Japanese national soccer team lose its second game in Germany, 2 to 1, to a local squad rounded up for the match. The Japanese won repeated applause for their dogged determination.

Earlier, the Japanese lost 4-1 in Aachen against Allentonia Aachen. The team plans to leave soon for Britain to continue its European tour. —AP.

BRITISH SOCCER ON THE INSIDE

A warning to the 'poor relations'

Says CAPEL KIRBY

London.
Peterborough United's fantastic League debut is more than a slap in the red faces of clubs whose closed shop voting kept them out for 21 years. It is also a serious threat to the shoe-string existence of the Accringtons, Rochdales, Oldhams and Southports of Soccer's distressed and congested areas.

Gateshead were slung out to make way for appropriately named "Preston". Who goes next? Be sure others will follow now that Peterborough have more than justified their election to the League. Apart from playing results, their box-office appeal has been the envy of many a Second Division club, all of which adds up to the door being left ajar for the entrance of other League-conscious candidates like Oxford United. The Headington set-up is every bit as ambitious and go-ahead as Peterborough's.

Spurs' £100,000 reserves

Regular Tottenham Hotspur Reserves' players in the Football Combination include goalkeeper Johnny Holloway, full-backs John Hills and Welsh International Mel Hopkins, Italy-retained Tony March, star centre-half John Ryden, ex-West Ham star John Smith and, occasionally, Welsh International winger Terry Madwin. That collection is worth £100,000 on the transfer market!—Banews Service.

It is high time the Soccer scene was switched from the industrial North to industrialised but hitherto rural areas. One of these days the Football League will see sense in my age-worn argument that where towns like Bradford, Nottingham, Bristol and the rest cannot support two clubs they should be instructed to pool their resources and merge into one good, successful League club.

Reading and Halifax have been putting the rule over Arthur Longbottom. They were watching the Queen's Park Rangers inside-forward again last week.

Eyes on Ron

Leyton mystery: Last season Ron Foster and Terry McDonald attracted many wise men to the Orient from afar.

This season the left wing partnership has failed to function with anything like its true striking form, but that doesn't mean their names have been struck off the wanted lists of several top drawer clubs. Sunderland directors paid many visits to Leyton last season and plan to take another look at Foster if their bid for George Herd, of Clyde, falls through. Incidentally, all the publicity attending Sunderland's quest for an inside-forward is causing speculation about the future of Alan O'Neill. The Scottish junior product would be welcome in the Midlands, especially at Villa Park.

McCann move?
Phone wires have been buzzing since news got round that McCann is unsettled and would like a change of scenery from Ashton Gate.

Lincoln are particularly interested in the former Burnley left winger who was switched to inside-forward to accommodate 28-year-old Jack Boxley, back again with City after four years at Coventry.

BEFORE THE BIG CRASH

Mrs Tonia Campbell, wife of British speed king Donald Campbell, ties her husband's shoes and wishes him luck minutes before his £1,500,000 speed car Bluebird II turned over at more than 300 miles per hour at Bonneville Salt Flats last week. Campbell escaped serious injury and said, after the accident that he would like to try again. The car, however, was heavily damaged, and may have to be returned to England for repairs.

A tribute to Prince Philip's sporting prowess

London, Sept. 22. Uffa Fox, yachting friend of the Duke of Edinburgh, has paid a warm tribute to Prince Philip's sporting prowess.

Speaking at a luncheon of the Roadfarers' Club, he said: "I would say Prince Philip is good at whatever he puts his hand to—cricket, polo, or sailing."

"This year the Prince got in Bluebottle (his Dragon Class yacht) for the first time in two years. We made a fairly good start and were first or second for most of the race."

Bluebottle eventually finished fourth or fifth, but only seconds behind the second boat.

"If only he would sail every year as much as ordinary people," declared Uffa Fox "he would be the best helmsman we have because he is a wonderful seaman."

Speaking on road safety, Mr Fox suggested there should be "no nonsense" about the government's scheme, at present voluntary, for testing cars 10 years old and over.

The life of a car should be related to its horsepower—10 years for a 10 horse power car and 20 years for a 20 horse power vehicle.

He also suggested the steering wheel should be centrally positioned to overcome the difficulty arising from right hand and left hand driving in Britain and on the Continent.—China Mail Special.

Rosewall in top form at London Pro Tournament

Wembley, Sept. 22. Australia's Ken Rosewall made himself a firm favourite for the £1,000 first prize in the London International Professional Indoor Lawn Tennis Championships tonight.

In the semi-final he beat Alex Olmedo, United States, 6-0, 6-0, 6-3 to enter the final.

Rosewall was at his incredible best during this 60-minute "workout" against the 1959 Wimbledon champion. Olmedo conceded the first 15 games before securing his initial success.—UPI.

English soccer result

Man who hit Ghana official will be jailed

London, Sept. 22. Peter Dawson 34-year-old Londoner who knocked down the Ghana High Commissioner in a scuffle outside the Ritz Hotel, London, yesterday failed in his appeal against a sentence of three months imprisonment for threatening behaviour.

Counsel for the Director of Public Prosecutions told the court that Dawson with other members of the Union Movement—"a fascist organisation"—went to the hotel in the London West End on July 23 when Mr Lamumba was due to leave for London Airport.

It so happened that the Ghana High Commissioner Mr E. C. Asfandjaye left the hotel just when Mr Lamumba was expected and Dawson struck the Commissioner with his fist.

The court ordered Dawson—who has had five convictions since joining the union movement—to forfeit £200 should he get in any similar trouble again within the next three years.

He was also ordered to pay 23 guineas costs. — China Mail Special.

Severe tremors rock Belgian territory

Brussels, Sept. 22. At least five severe earth tremors today shook the town of Usimbura, in the Belgian trust territory of Ruanda Urundu, neighbouring the Congo, the Belg News Agency reported here.

Electricity was cut off and considerable damage caused, the population panicked, the agency said.

Usimbura, capital of the trust territory, is on the northern tip of Lake Tanganyika and lies close to the border with the Congo's Kivu province.

Last count of population was 17,701. — Reuter.

FINED FOR FALSE USE OF TRADEMARK

Two men, summonsed for falsely applying trade marks to plastic bags, were each fined $1,250 by Mr I. T. Morris at Central Court, or in default five months in jail.

Ng Sang-yoi and Ng Sing-chung, of 15 Ko Shing-street, third floor, were also ordered to pay $500 each as costs towards the prosecution.

The complainants alleged that the two men falsely applied the trade mark "Swift" and the words "Perfecta Rubber Works" to plastic bags without the permission of the company.

Sold locally

Mr Yeung Wing-tak of 58 Connaught-road, ground floor, managing partner of Perfecta Rubber Works, said his company was the registered owner of the trade mark "Swift".

The trade mark was applied to sandals, amongst other things, and these were sold locally in plastic bags.

He gave evidence that a bag produced in court, marked "Swift" was not one of the bags his firm produced, although the trade mark on it was identical to the one his firm used.

Raid

He said he first saw this bag last year after a DCI raid on the defendant's premises.

Mr Oswald Cheung instructed by Mr Francis Wong appeared for the complainant and Mr Francis Chaine of Messrs Edmund Cheung and Co represented the defendants.

EAST AFRICAN COMPLEXITIES

London, Sept. 22. Mr Iain Macleod, the Colonial Secretary said on his return from Uganda today he intends to set up a commission to study the special complexities of relationships in the East African protectorates.

He would hold a conference to consider its recommendations and also the constitutional position resulting from local elections after he had received his report about next April.

Mr Macleod was speaking at London Airport after spending four days in Uganda principally to open the new parliamentary building in Kampala. — China Mail Special.

Nine-storey building plan approved

The Tenancy Tribunal this morning recommended exemption for Nos 1 to 3 North-street, Western District.

The applicants, Lam Kwong-kai and Lam Kwong-man intend to demolish the existing three-storey 30-year-old buildings, and build a nine-storey block of flats and shops to cost $210,000 on the site.

They were represented by Mr D. A. L. Wright, who was instructed by Mr Robert Wong of Deacons.

The 35 tenants and sub-tenants were represented by Mr C. P. Lai of Peter Mo and Co. Mr Henry Hu instructed by Edmund Cheung and Chaine, and Mr A. H. Sullivan by Wong and Co. and Mr P. S. Woo of Hastings and Co.

On the Tribunal were the President, Mr B. V. Rhodes, Mrs C. D'Almeida e Castro and Mr Sielo Wai.

Found with tobacco: jail and fine

A man charged with having 889 lbs of dutiable Chinese prepared tobacco, was sentenced to six months' jail and fined $5,000 or another six months, by Mr E. Corbally at Central this morning.

Tang Tim, 34, of 11 Second-street ground floor, was alleged to have had the tobacco in his possession in a vehicle in Wong-nieching Gap-road on September 21.

He added the title was established by the statutory declaration. He then approved the draft, making an amendment to the last page by deleting a covenant which the conveying clerk had written as a rider. Low continued.

Low said the clerk told him that it was put in as a covenant on the instructions of Lam. The rider referred to confirmation of the identity of Mr Loke by Mr Ma.

Low said there were no conversations between Lam and himself in which Lam had told him that the identification was false. The first time he knew that it was not the true Mr Loke Kwan-hing was on April 27, 1959, he added.

Approved

Continuing he said he duly approved of the mortgage and about December 7, 1959, Lam came into room with Mr Loke, Cheung, and Yung Dick. The person known as Mr Loke executed the mortgage, he added.

The relevant cheques were drawn and given to Mr Loke who then asked him to endorse the cheques. He said he did so by signing his name on the back together with the firm's chop.

He said he did not receive anything out of the proceeds of another cheque.

Hearing continues this afternoon.

The prosecution alleges that Low, while being a servant in the employ of Wilkinson and Grist, had fraudulently converted to his own use or benefit cheques totalling $200,000 between December, 1955, and August, 1959. He is also alleged to have received sums of money from Lam Cheung-fan for passing execution of deeds of mortgage and promissory notes.

He pleads not guilty to all charges. Mr J. Boddy and Mr H. F. G. Hobson, Crown Counsel, appear for the prosecution. Mr H. B. A. How and Mr W. P. Greaves are defending Low.

Mr A. Zimmerman is holding a witness brief for Mr E. Blundell, a witness on the instructions of Mr P. H. Sin.

Fire victims given clothes by visiting U.S. sailors

Against the back-drop of a hillside blackened by the recent fire at Tai Hang Tung, men of the USS Hornet this morning handed out clothing to old and young.

Through the narrow lanes covered with grime churned into mud, a crowd of mothers and babies, old men and women, thronged to the Maryknoll Mission's new dental clinic where the clothes were handed out.

An old man, Leung Nin-hoi, who lost his wife and six children in China, received blankets. He was once a wealthy man.

Neatly-dressed

Another recipient was Lee Lai-for, the neatly dressed young mother of six children. Her husband is a textile worker and earns $150 a month.

She said "This will help me to make clothes for my children", and went off happily with the three youngest of them.

It was a new experience for the men of the Hornet to see the Tai Hang Tung resettlement estate with its teeming thousands and the homeless squatters whose huts were burnt out last week.

Shown around

They were shown around the area by the Rev. Father C. Hume, of the Maryknoll Mission who has worked there since 1950.

The men said that the bales of clothing were given by their wives, relatives and friends and had been brought from San Diego which they left last May.

Thief enters Correspondents' Club

A man who stole a camera and fountain pen valued at $291 and about $55 in cash from the Foreign Correspondents' Club, Conduit-road, was sentenced to 18 months by Mr E. Corbally at Central Court this morning.

Detective Sub-Inspector D. G. McNeil told the court that Wong Sum-choi (27) of 23 Pak Tin Bar Village, Tsau Wan, took the camera and pen from Mr E. B. D. Baumann's room and the money from Mr E. W. Hunt's room on September 2.

A Des Voeux-road pawn shop gave information to the police and defendant was arrested on September 21.

Wong pleaded guilty. The pawn shop received $90 compensation.

Promotion

SAID an editorial in the Morning Post: "The announcement that Marble Hall, the residence of the late Sir Paul Chater, is to be used as the residence of the naval Commander-in-Chief comes as a surprise to the public and arouses some mild questioning."

"Apparently, Marble Hall is not merely placed at the use of the Admiralty, but is handed over to the Admiralty, and becomes Admiralty property."

"When Sir Paul bequeathed the house and its contents to the Colony, he presumably intended the bequest for the Colony's benefit, and the local benefit derivable from the arrangement now announced is not easily detected."

"There is no suggestion Navy or Admiralty is unwelcome; nor does carping criticism arise of hospitality shown to the fleet and its exalted commander. The issue is not personal but rather one of higher domestic politics."

"The Hongkong resident distinguished carefully between the Navy and the Admiralty, the Army and the War Office, and the feeling is that the attitude of these august authorities in London towards the Colony has never been marked by great generosity."

"While therefore the community will be pleased to have the Admiralty housed comfortably and with a dignity in keeping with his rank, the community also is justified in submitting that the Admiralty can very well afford to build the house or buy one."
